COMM 3093: Team Project Description & Overview

Project Description

Working in project teams for the semester, you will design a small-scale marketing campaign for a product, service, or event of a real or familiar business or organization. You will use AI tools (or not) to research, draft, and refine content across multiple platforms, maintaining human judgment, clarity, and ethical responsibility. Our goal is to practice and develop team writing workflows, tracking, and the use of Microsoft Office 365 collaborative documents and tools.

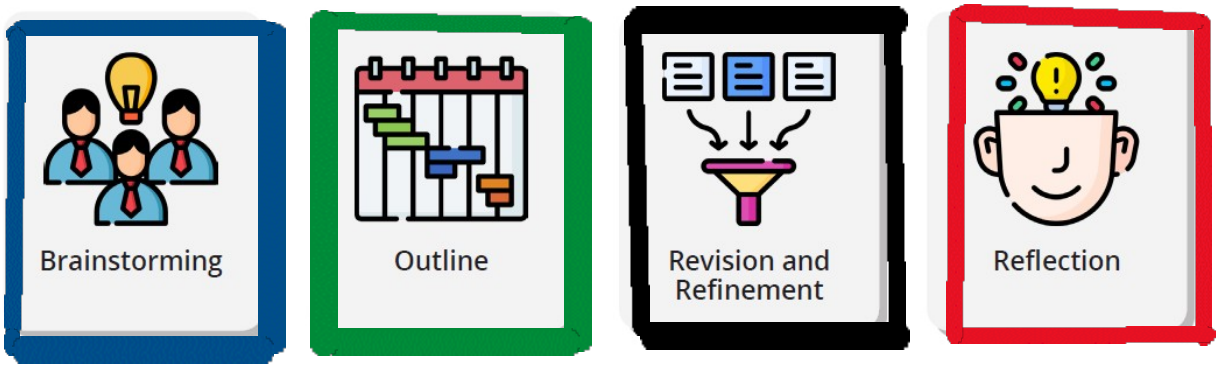

Whichever organization or business we choose, one or more of the group members will have access to it. Each campaign will have a specific communication problem or goal to guide the campaign, such as promoting a product, raising awareness for an event, or highlighting a service. This focus will help you develop targeted content without needing to create a hypothetical scenario.

Throughout the project, you will develop skills in team collaboration, audience analysis, persuasive communication, brand voice consistency, and ethical use of AI in professional writing, culminating in a cohesive campaign that demonstrates both creativity and strategic thinking.

This is a semester-long scaffolded project that requires sustained collaboration and work over a period of weeks.

Project Breakdown

The project consists of four milestones, with 2 assignments due at each milestone:

Milestone 1: Campaign Concept Sheet and Team Process Report (Feb. 17)

Milestone 2: Outline Sets (3) and Team Process Report (Mar. 5)

Milestone 3: Refined Content Package and Team Process Report (Apr. 2)

Milestone 4: Campaign Strategy Report and Team Process Report (Apr. 16)

See individual milestone assignments for descriptions and requirements of the content piece required.

Team Process Reports. In addition to the required content piece, each milestone submission will include a Team Process Report that contains the following five parts:

1. Team Roles
2. Workflow & Version Control
3. Prompt Log
4. Decision Log
5. Peer Review

Why a Team Process Report?

The Team Process Report demonstrates evidence of collaboration. To earn strong collaboration evidence points in any milestone, the Team Process document will show:

- Shared authorship: different people drafted and revised (not one person writing while others “give ideas”)
- Shared AI work (when applicable): multiple members contributed prompts and evaluated AI output
- Shared decision-making: the team made and recorded at least a couple real choices (tone, CTA, audience focus)
- Peer review that changes the work: feedback led to edits (not just “looks good”)
